

Ron Insana is a senior analyst at CNBC where he discusses the most pressing economic and market issues of the day. He also delivers The Market Scoreboard Report to radio stations around the country. He has written for Money magazine and USA Today and has hosted two nationally syndicated radio programs.

For over three decades, Insana has been a highly respected business journalist who began his career at the Financial News Network in 1984 and joined CNBC when FNN and CNBC merged in 1991.

From 2006-2008, Insana was CEO of Insana Capital Partners, an alternative asset manager. At its peak, Insana Capital managed the $125 million “Legends Fund.”

Insana was named one of the "Top 100 Business News Journalists of the 20th Century" and was nominated for a news and documentary Emmy for his role in NBC's coverage of 9/11.

He launched The Insana Entertainment Group in 2019 using his extensive contact base, and his proprietary media creations, to address the growing need for high-quality content in the ever-growing world of entertainment fare.
